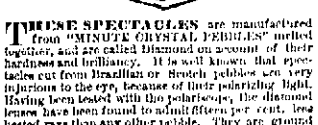
Diamond Spectacles.



THESE SPECTACLES are manufactured from "MINUTE CRYSTAL PEBBLES" melted together, and are called Diamond on account of their hardness and brilliancy. It is well known that spectacles cut from Brazilian or Scotch pebbles are very injurious to the eye, because of their polarizing light. Having been tested with the polariscope, the diamond lenses have been found to admit fifteen per cent. less heated rays than any other pebble. They are ground with great scientific accuracy, are free from chromatic aberration, and produces a brightness and distinctness of vision not before attained in spectacles.
Manufactured by the Spencer Optical Manufacturing Comp New York. For sale by responsible agents in every city in the Union. H. A. HEATH & CO'S., Jewelers and Opticians, are sole Agents for Newport, R. I.,—from whom they can only be obtained. No peddlers employed. Do not buy any unless you see the trade mark sp

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1873.

Naval Matters.

THE ROANOKE.

This vessel was built at the same time and by authorization of the same act Congress under which the Colorado and Minnesota were constructed. At first she was a wooden screw frigate of a little more than 3 000 tons register, and carrying forty-five guns. During the war, and by the advice of the Secretary of the Navy, she was changed from her original size and cut down to one deck, armamented with iron plates and turreted. The turrets are three in number and similar to those of a monitor. In these are placed six guns of the heavy 15 inch pattern. The Roanoke has the advantage of being much higher out of the water than the ordinary monitors, and is considered a very good sea boat. She can chiefly be used, however, as a coast craiser. In this service it is believed that she would be very efficient.

During the war and after her reconstruction the Roanoke was expected to do good work, but she never had an opportunity of displaying her strength. During the latter part of the hostilities she was anchored at the mouth of the Delaware as a coast defense. The work which has now to be done on her consists of repairing boilers and engines and repainting the interior. The Roanoke is timbered like a monitor, but the officers' and men's quarters are much more commodious and comfortable. Forty-five men are now at work upon her, and it is expected that she will be ready to go to sea about three weeks.

THE FLORIDA.

This vessel is a model of her class. She is a second-rate screw steamer, carrying twenty-three 9 inch guns. Her displacement is 1,930, and her measurement 2,135 tons. Recently she has been laying up in ordinary at this station, but when the trouble with Spain commenced, she was hauled out and is now being rapidly prepared for sea. She is having her boilers and engines inspected and repaired. The lower masts are in position, but the topmasts and lighter spars will have to be run up. About forty men are engaged in the necessary repairs on the rigging and engines. The ship will be ready to sail in three weeks. The Florida is said to be the fastest steam-going steam ship afloat, and is certainly the best sailer in the American Navy. During her trial trip in 1866 she ran from this city to Savannah and made very remarkable time. From the official log it appears that her average speed was sixteen nautical or nineteen statute miles an hour. During twenty-four hours the average distance sailed was nineteen statute miles an hour, and during twelve hours nineteen and one-third statute miles. The greatest distance made in one hour was twenty and one-half miles. This is the fastest time on record, beating the famous eighteen-mile run of the ill-fated Ville du Havre. The greatest distance made by the Florida in twenty-four hours was 459 miles. The naval constructor at the Brooklyn yard states that he believes the ship could make even better than this were it necessary.

THE DICTATOR.

The monitor Dictator, carrying two guns and having a measurement of 1,750 tons, was recently towed from New London, where she had been lying for some time, to the Brooklyn yard, and is now being rapidly prepared for sea. There are about thirty men employed on her. She is to be overhauled in every part, and is having her engines and boilers repaired. She will be ready for service in two weeks. It is not believed that the Dictator will be sent to Cuba. She is considered a very formidable vessel for harbor defense, and if is expected that she will, when work on her is completed, be put into commission, manned, and anchored in the lower bay, just inside the Narrows.

THE SPANISH SHIP ARAPILES.

The formidable ironclad Arapiles still lies at the Navy yard, but the work of repairing and recoaling her has progressed so rapidly that it is believed she will be ready to go to sea today or tomorrow. This morning it is expected that she will float out into the stream and take her guns on board. Her armament consists of seventeen guns. Of these, ten are 68 pounders, four 300 pounders, and three 240 pounders. The seven heavier guns are made of steel, after the Armstrong pattern. They carry conical balls and do terrible exertion at both long and short range. Competent judges express the opinion that this Spanish vessel would be more than a match for any two of the heaviest ships in the navy of the United States. Some of the older officers, who have long served in wooden sailing ships, express the firm belief that they could sink the best iron ship afloat with a frigate like the Colorado. The younger and more scientific commanders, however, men who have studied and graduated at the Naval Academy, and who saw much service during the war, are of the opinion that such a ship as the Arapiles could only be attacked with any hope of success by the American monitors. None of the wooden ships would live an hour opposed to her terrible guns and formidable plate covering.

OPINIONS OF NAVAL OFFICERS.

During conversations which were had with a number of distinguished officers at the Navy yard yesterday, the opinion appeared generally to prevail that the American Navy, in its present condition, was not a match for the fleets of any of the great powers. The monitors were excellent for coast and harbor defense, but could not safely be trusted at sea. The wooden ships were good sea boats, but could not compete against the iron-clads of other nations.

One officer, whose name is known to every citizen of the country, was asked if he believed the ships of the American Navy could compete with those of Spain. His reply was "No, emphatically no." When asked what was needed to place the United States in a condition to meet any of the European powers on the sea, he said that the very first and most pressing requisite was one or two powerful iron-clad ships like those in the possession of England. With even one ship like the Monarch, which brought the remains of Mr. Peabody to this country, much might be done. She was a vessel of 5000 tons burden, could make twelve knots an hour, and was armed with the most powerful and approved ordnance. Having one ship of this class, the harbors and commercial cities being defended by the monitors, most admirable vessels for such work, all the power that a nation like Spain could bring would be powerless to do much injury, and the American fleet could enter any harbor in Cuba. At least one such vessel as the Monarch should be kept in commission in New York at all times, and in such a condition that she could put to sea at three days' notice. A vessel of the class mentioned could keep the seas for thirty days, if necessary, and would frighten off all vessels, not of very heavy calibre, that might attempt to approach the coast. There were courage and energy, skill and ambition enough in the American Navy, and among its officers to, in the end, defeat any one power in the world; but it would be poor policy to send so splendid a body of men to be "roomed" to the bottom without giving them a chance to fire a gun. A ship like the Monarch could sink every wooden frigate in the American Navy without letting them burn powder. These were strong words, and many an Ensign might not be willing to believe them. Such was the opinion of many able officers, however, and it was certainly worthy of at least serious consideration on the part of Congress and the country at large.

All ironclad ships-of-war were fitted out with an iron prow, and in a fight they attacked an enemy like a bull, ram forward. Vessels of this class always tried, upon entering a contest, to run down and sink their opponents. When the ship was well managed this could, in most cases, be accomplished. If by superior seamanship this manœuvre were defeated, one of the 300 pound shot of even a ship like the Spanish Arapiles' entering two feet above the water line, would come out below the water line of most of the wooden ships in the American Navy, and would sink them in five minutes. The navy of the United States had always been small, but from the foundation of the government it had ever been the policy to have none but the finest vessels of their class. In the days of sailing ships, Yankee frigates and sloops-of-war were inferior to none. So, too, the steam frigates Wabash, Merrimac, Lancaster, Powhatan, and others were, fifteen years ago, equal to any ships in the navies of the world, but within the past few years all Europe had been making rapid headway in naval architecture, while the United States had been at a stand still. Today, not only England, but France, Russia, Spain, Germany and even Turkey, could enter a sea-fight with America with every hope of success at first. The United States had not one iron-clad ship. The monitors could not be called such, for they were only efficient in still water. It was contended that, by the better seamanship and courage of American seamen, any power could be worsted in the end. This may be true, but why was it necessary to at first sacrifice so many brave, good men? If other powers employed ironclads, then it was clearly the duty of the government to do the same if she expected to contend with European nations.

An American officer, in Peru, is suffering from a swelling about the eye. He sent an anonymous note to the wife of a Peruvian officer, informing her that her husband was in the habit of meeting a certain lady at a popular place of resort in Callao. He also wrote to the husband that his wife was in the habit of going to the same place at the same hour, to meet a gentleman. Maddened by jealousy each went to the place at the same time. The wife went first, and the husband soon followed. Mutual recriminations ensued, in the midst of which the lady of the house came in and protested she had never seen either of the parties before.

THE SALARY BILL.

The repeal of the salary bill of last Winter seems to make about as much stir as the original passage of the bill and it reflects quite as little credit on the members of Congress. The proposition to repeal is not the offspring of any sense of honesty or honor on the part of those benefited by the bill because no principle of honesty has been violated and as for the honor it is unreasonable to ask Congressmen to be any more delicate in money matters than their constituents.

With a very few exceptions there was not a Congressman who returned his back pay who did not do it merely for the sake of saving his popularity. He cast his back pay Jonah overboard to save his ship from being swamped in the political storm, and now Senator Conkling wants a bill passed which will prevent the whale of the United States Treasury from casting up this Jonah where the Congressmen can get it again. The only reason why any members of Congress now propose to repeal the salary bill is that they dare not face exasperated but unreasonable public opinion. The reason why Democratic papers have stormed so about this bill is that out of it they saw a chance to make some party capital. Everybody knows that the salary increase was not dishonest. If Congressmen ought not to increase their pay why does the constitution give them alone the power to do it? It is nonsense to say that it is honest for Congressmen to raise their pay from $3000 to $5000, but dishonest to raise it from the latter figure to $7500. The back pay part of the bill was a mistake but as long as two previous Congresses have been allowed to take back pay it does not become the country to make such a fuss about this one.

We believe that the late salary bill was in some respects extravagant. There is reason to believe that the cost of living in Washington is no greater now than it was in 1866. The salaries ought to have been increased only enough to compensate for the loss of mileage and frankage. Now that it is proposed to repeal the bill, Congressmen not unnaturally declare that they will reassume these two privileges which were surrendered last Winter in return for the increased salary. The mileage of the Congressmen from the Pacific coast is so great that they will get more money from this source than from the extra salary.

The back pay part of the bill is the obnoxious part, and if this had not been attached to it, the bill would have excited little attention. But this part can not be undone. No law can be passed that will go into members pockets and take therefrom money that they have legally drawn from the Treasury; as the worst part of the bill is beyond remedy there is little use in tinkering with the rest of it. The nation had better give Congressmen $7500 a year than to give them $5000 a year and mileage and frankage. It won't cost much more and it will be very much more equitable.

As to the salary of the President, it ought not to be touched. It had never been increased from the days of Washington till last Winter. With all the perquisites and extras that the President may receive it is certain that Grant receives less pay in proportion to the cost of living than did our early Presidents. The salaries of Congressmen and judges have been increased from time to time, but the salary of President, from 1789 to 1873 remained $25,000.

To show how utterly insincere and mean spirited is the present attack in Congress on the salary bill we need only cite an incident in the House last Tuesday. Mr. Lawrence of Ohio was making a tremendously virtuous speech about robbing the nation, and swindling the hard working people, etc., etc., when he was asked by Mr. Wilson of Indiana, if he did not take $4,000 of back pay when he was a member of the Thirty ninth Congress. Undoubtedly Mr. Lawrence would have been only too happy to to change the subject of conversation to the Spanish question or anything else, but he could not do it. He who was emptying the phials of his virtuous indignation on the Forty second Congress, had to confess that he was a back pay grabber of the Thirty ninth Congress. He stood a self convicted demagogue. He was condemning others for following the example he had set them. This display of mean truckling to the clamor of an irresponsible caucus, or the howling of a partisan newspaper is more disgusting than any salary grab.

The present is a time of financial embarrassment. The national receipts are falling off and its expenses are increasing. It would be a very noble and patriotic thing for Congressmen to reduce their salaries for the benefit of the public. But we have no right to ask them to be more disinterested than their constituents, and precious few of their constituents would sacrifice their personal good for the good of the nation. To repeal the salary increase and restore the unjust system of mileage, and the much abused franking privilege would bring the country no relief worth talking about. The action of the Forty second Congress was no worse than that of the Thirty ninth and other Congresses, but the camel of public opinion was so weighted down with Credit Mobiliers and New York and Brooklyn and Philadelphia and Washington rings that the straw of the salary bill was too much for it to stand, and the nation has burst forth into an irrational howl about an action that has both law and precedent to sustain it.

HOW MUCH WORK A HORSE CAN DO.—At a meeting of the British Association at Dublin, Mr. Charles Bianconi of Canpel read a paper relative to his extensive car establishment, after which a gentleman stated that at Pickford's, the great English carriers, they could not work a horse more than ten miles a day, and wished to hear Mr. Bianconi's opinion on the subject. Mr. B. stated that he found by experience, he could better work a horse eight miles a day for six days in the week, than six miles a day for seven days. By not working on Sunday, he effected a saving of twelve per cent. Mr. Bianconi's opinion on this point is of the highest importance, for he has over nine hundred horses working sixty-seven conveyances, which daily travel 1241 miles. It is also the result of forty-three years' experience.—[Scientific American.

The Capitol at Washington.

And so now we come at last to the Capitol, which, with all its defects, is the greatest architectural triumph this country has produced, and which can lack a world-wide reputation only because Americans themselves have not known enough to give such to it. Like all the most famous structures, it was not built in a day, but has grown gradually into its present development; and even unfinished as it is hugely defective as it is, and with unlimited capacity for additions and improvements, it crowns the city and landscape with a glory unsurpassed by any secular building in existence. It is not all of white marble, dear reader, but at first you take it to be; and its extent, its strength, its evident costliness, together with its singular external beauty, quite inflate one with joyous patriotism and pride, and in looking at it one feels that our money-loving and money-getting Brother Jonathan has the divine spark of genius hidden somewhere within him, after all.

The first surprise and exultation over, however, a succession of mortifying discoveries dawns upon the visitor, of which the most crushing to me was, that, though splendidly situated upon the ridge commanding the city, the Capitol faces the wrong way. The front is to the east, and those magnificent porticoes, with their crowds of Corinthian pillars, their sculptured pediments, bronze doors, and countless sweeping marble steps, the bronze Goddess of Liberty herself,—everything,—turns its back upon the city, the river, and the west, and the whole facade exists for the benefit of the trees that were idiotically planted in the East Capitol grounds just across the street from it, and which have now grown so great that they make a full or three-quarter view of the building impossible, and so beautiful that the threatened cutting of them down is "enough to kill one."

Washington expected and intended that his namesake city should grow up in state and splendor on the hill, instead of down in the marshy, malarial plain. But, unfortunately he placed the President's house down there, and of course all society inevitably clustered about it; besides which, the original property owners held the land about the Capitol at such exorbitant rates that for years people were actually forced to purchase elsewhere.

So for a long time the hill was comparatively abandoned, while the plain was peopled. But the marvel of marvels is, why, when the Capitol Extension was planned twenty-five years ago, and men had seen plainly where, contrary to the original expectation, the city had built itself, that occasion was not seized for making the grand facade on the east front, and of placing the statue on the dome facing in the same direction; for now the Goddess of Liberty looks as if shrugging her shoulders at the haphazard city behind her,—nay, at the "great sloven continent" itself,—she were gazing regretfully toward the ocean across which she had floated hither, and were vainly wishing herself safe back in the "tight little island" of respectabilities and proprieties that gave her birth.—[From Atlantic Monthly for December.

Among several plans under consideration for keeping canals open during the winter, perhaps the most original is that proposed by a correspondent of the Rochester Democrat, who thinks the task may be accomplished by placing a gang of circular saws on a revolving shaft in front of a scow, on board of which is to be a steam engine for driving the saws. This invention, supplemented by an ice pick, also driven by steam power, he believes would clear out the channel as fast as the horses towing the boats could walk. As there are now five hundred boats frozen in between Albany and Buffalo, the correspondent claims that the saving effected by enabling one fleet to get through, would more than pay the cost of the apparatus. The scheme certainly seems more practical than that of heating

Editor Daily News.

SIR:—I noticed in your issue of yesterday an article entitled, "Coming to the Rescue" which made a favorable impression on my mind, in regard to feasibility of such a grand and momentous enterprise, which if recognized and adopted by Congress, will bedeck the heads of the promulgators of this grand conception with laurels of unfading lustre. This I consider a rare opportunity for those young men to distinguish themselves as heroes of the 19th century, and to have their names honorably enrolled in the history of their country, which will be a pleasure for their posterity to recall.

Since writing the forgoing I have been informed that the government has favorably considered the proposals made by our young citizens. It is encouraging that immediate steps have been taken to put the Cornfield Point No. 11 in thorough repair for any emergency. She has been removed to a wharf in the vicinity of one of our prominent ship builders, and has I am informed received the above instructions.

In point of model and armament I question very much if she can be surpassed by any maritime nation in the world. She will be well manned and officered by gentlemen whose object is to break the pride of Spanish invincibility in the deep. She will be more than could be legitimately anticipated in view of her past record for sea ("sea") service Spain may not believe it, but if the fact is ever tested, she will find it "terribly true."

The novel spectacle of a large schooner travelling overland might have been seen near Watch Hill, last week. The schooner S. T. Robbins, ashore at "the Knapps," a little to the west of Watch Hill, was moved across the neck of land separating the ocean from Pawcatuck Bay, a distance of more than an eighth of a mile, and was afterward launched into the bay, the attempt of getting her afloat from the ocean side having been given up, owing to the heavy weather. She will be towed to Stonington, and after being repaired will continue in the freighting business.

PRESENTING ARMS.—John Wilbur, an Englishman was arrested on a charge of attempting to shoot a man named Shay at his house on Burnside court. Wilbur says he came here to collect a bill from Mrs. McCarty for Mathew Townsend of Worcester, Mass., dealer in Knit goods. He says he went to Shay's house and asked for the person he wanted to see and was told that she did not live there. He went to another house and they referred him back to Shay's. Shay got mad because Wilbur came back and knocked him off the steps. Wilbur drew a revolver and pointing it at Shay told him not to do that any more. The pistol he says was not cocked. Then Shay and another man seized him, took the pistol away and punched him a good deal and then delivered him to Sergeant Ackers and Officer Collins who took him to the Station House. He still remains there, but is not in confinement.

At a meeting of the Bar Association resolutions denouncing the nomination of Attorney General Williams to the Supreme Court were offered by Mr. Price and tabled unanimously. A resolution asking for better pay for gas to different companies than it would cost if made and supplied on the Philadelphia plan, but decline recommending such manufacture by the city, being fearful of increasing the taxes by erecting gas houses, and that the management thereof might lead to political intrigue.

A Key West letter to the Tribune of the 1st inst. says the flagship Worcester, ironclad Saugus and gunboat Pawnee, and a revenue cutter, were all the war vessels then there. Mr. Dawes of Massachusetts, from the committee of ways and means reported a bill to provide or the redemption of the loan of 1858. It declares that for the purpose of redeeming the bonds issued under the act of June, 1858 it is the pleasure of the United States to pay all coupons and registered bonds of the loan of 1858 on the 1st of January 1874 at which date the interest thereon shall cease, and appropriates money to carry out its provisions. The second section authorizes the issue of an equal amount of five per cent bonds in exchange for such bonds of 1858 as holders thereof may desire to exchange on or before the 1st of February, 1874, provided no commissions or allowance whatever be paid for the exchange of the bonds.

Mr. Garfield, of Ohio, moved in the House that in order to make up the deficiency a duty of 5c. a pound be imposed on tea and 3c. on coffee and said that at this moment the expenditures of the government were beyond the revenue. The revenues of the last month had fallen off so as to make a deficit for the month just closed of over nine million dollars. He was opposed to the substitute, but if it were to be adopted he desired to have coupled with it the provision which he had offered. The bill as amended was passed.

BLEECKER STREET BOHEMIANS.—A correspondent waiting from New York to a Cincinnati paper pronounces the haunt and home of extreme Bohemianism to be in Bleecker street. "You find," he said, "in its eccentric boarding-houses, its quaint European hotels, and its anomalous lodgings men and women who have a certain connection with art, literature, journalism. Accommodations are cheap, and not uncomfortable to persons unafflicted with fastidiousness. Poor painters, poor in a double sense, dwell there in shillings a day, and on the hope of ultimate recognition of the genius they have never possessed. Occasionally an artist of genuine ability, though lack of appreciation, drifts under those roofs, and then fights his way to acknowledgment. . . . crushed by disappointment, turns to dissipation, madness and death. Suicide is not uncommon in the singular street, but it attracts little attention, for its denizens claim to be philosophic, to esteem life as having no advantages which the undertaker or Potter's Field is bound to respect. I have been told there are more cases of self-destruction there in one year than any other street in the same time, and I think the statement must be true."

Patent No. 348,000.

Dr. Napier Warren, of London, is now in this city. He is young, dashing and rich, and is here to see the country. He arrived last week and took rooms at the Clarendon. Since then he has been seeing as much of the country as the time and circumstances have permitted. His experience has been partially of an instructive character, and in telling about it Mr. Warren throws open his swellish overcoat, leans back with the air of a man who is going to tell something good, and stops at intervals to join in the laugh at himself. "I'm not a mercantile man, you know," he says, "and so of course I'm not up to the business sort of thing. That's why I needed the lesson I've got, and explains how I allow myself to get it. After I'd been here a day or two I met a man from Kansas—said he was, you know, and was full of stories about the resources of the country, the chances of making fortunes and that sort of thing. He was such a talkative, nice sort of fellow that one couldn't help believing half he said and half believing the other half. He said he was very wealthy, had vast amounts of property in Kansas, and, bless you, how was I to know that he hadn't. He lived well and dressed well, and it takes money to do that, you know. It doesn't matter much what he said his name was, because it's likely he lied like a beggar about it; but he said it was Thompson, George Thompson. He talked about patents, and speculation, until positively, my dear fellow, he got me into quite a fever for business. Then he said he had a patent for a fly fan that was a fortune to whoever took hold of it. It was something, he said, that would be used by everybody in the South, where the flies bother one, combined keeping cool with freedom from insect annoyance and all that. Thompson talked glib enough about it, and, do you know, I believed him—the scoundrel."

"Well, after talking about his fly fan until he'd got me full of it, he said he shouldn't mind letting me in, as a friendly sort of thing, you know. He didn't care about getting the full value for the patent—didn't care about bothering with it anyhow. He would sell me the whole thing for $150, and somehow I couldn't refuse the offer. I paid him the money, and he gave me a bill of sale for the patent, No. 348,000. Well, that same day Thompson said he had to go to Vincennes, Vermont, but he would be back last Monday. He was to meet me, you know, and instruct me how to realize a fortune from my purchase. Do you know, the beggar never came."

Here Mr. Warren laughed again till he became red in the face, and his auditor fully realized the fun in the fact that Mr. Thompson never came.

"Well," continued Mr. Warren, "I went down finally to Munn & Co.'s, the patent lawyers, and they told me that less than two hundred thousand patents have been issued altogether, and that the fly fan was only that begger Thompson's trick to raise the wind. By Jove, you know, I've had my fill of mercantile life, and I'll never dabble in it again. It isn't the money—that wasn't enough to worry about—but the idea of being 'done' like a confounded flat. That wasn't a bad joke, though, was it? Fly fan—raising the wind—see?"—[N. Y. Sun.

The Marblehead men of the Judge Story and Elbridge Gerry stamp are not all dead. A Marblehead inspector thus replied to the taunt of a would-be governor, that the power which appointed could deprive him of office,—"General, my salary has amounted to just——dollars, and (slapping down his wallet upon the table) you are damned welcome to take it out of that, but damned if you can have my vote for governor of Massachusetts."

As a sad effect of the financial panic the Lynn Reporter says there were seventy less certificates of marriage granted by the city clerk of that city from July to December of this year than during the corresponding time last year. Since the same paper states that the ties by which Hymen bound together forty-nine couples were quickly snapped asunder by the granting of forty-nine cases of divorce, at the last term of the supreme court held in Salem, there may be other reasons than the panic for a suspension of the wedlock contracts.

PIMPLES AND HUMORS ON THE FACE.—In this condition of the skin, the VEGETINE is the great remedy, as it acts directly upon the cause. It cleanses and purifies the blood, thereby causing humors of all kinds to disappear.

CHAPPED HANDS, face, rough skin, pimples, ring worms, salt-rheum and other cutaneous affections cured, and the skin made soft and smooth, by using the JUNIPER TAR SOAP, made by CASWELL, HAZARD & CO., New York. Be certain to get the Juniper Tar Soap, as there are many imitations made with common tar which are worthless. nov25-4w

Why Endure What Is Curable.

"What can't be cured must be endured," says the proverb; but indigestion can be cured, and therefore it is the merest stupidity to endure it. Dyspeptics have certainly a right to continue dyspeptics to the end of their days if they choose, but as it is not supposed that any rational being prefers physical torment to ease and health, the probability is that if all sufferers from indigestion were convinced that an absolute, infallible remedy for their complaint existed, they would with one accord resort to it. We most emphatically declare that such a remedy does exist and that its name is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The record of its success extends over a period of more than twenty years, and it is fearlessly alleged that during the whole of that time it has never failed to afford permanent relief in any disorder or derangement of the stomach that was not organic, malignant, and incurable. The testimonials that go to establish this important fact can be counted by the thousand. Stomach complaints that had been aggravated by a total disregard of all dietary rules, and intensified and rendered chronic by medicinal treatment or drastic purgation, have in hundreds of instances been cured within three months by the systematic use of this celebrated stomachic and alterative. It should be remembered that weakness of the digestive organs involves many other ailments. Billiousness, headache, nervous debility, spasms, palpitation of the heart, rush of blood to the head, nausea, vertigo and sleeplessness are among its concomitants and results; and for all these the great vegetable tonic is a specific. It acts first upon the secretory and nervous system and the bowels, its general effect being always genial and beneficent.

GENERAL NEWS

WASHINGTON.

Increase of the Navy.

WASHINGON, Dec. 10.—In order to furnish the secretary of the navy sufficient men to man the vessels now being fitted out, Mr. Schofield, chairman of the naval affairs committee, reported a bill, today, to increase the force of enlisted men to 10,000. It is now limited by law to 8500. Secretary Robeson only wants the increase temporarily. He states that the men can be discharged as soon as it is found that they are not needed. The bill has been passed.

THE CHIEF JUSTICESHIP.

The senate judiciary committee resumed consideration of Judge Williams's nomination today, and after considerable discussion adjourned until this afternoon, when another session will be held. The nomination will probably be reported to the Senate without recommendation, as the chances for Williams's confirmation are doubtful. The President has been urged by several senators to withdraw his name, but he has not signified any intention of doing so.

FINANCIAL.

The senate Finance committee has authorized Senator Sherman to report a resolution looking to the resumption of specie payment, with a view of obtaining the sense of the Senate on the question. The resolution will undoubtedly lead to considerable debate. The committee is very much divided on the question, and several amendments will be offered by members of the committee when the subject comes up for discussion. The Senate unanimously decided to take up the question of the resumption of specie payment on Monday next, and continue discussion until the matter is finally settled. The sense of the Senate clearly indicated that they are for resumption at the earliest practical moment.

FREE EXCHANGES.

The house postal committee has appointed a sub-committee to prepare a bill for free distribution of books and documents and free delivery of newspapers in the country where they are published, and also free exchanges among newspapers.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—In the United States Senate, yesterday, petitions were received for the regulation of the traffic in alcoholic liquors. A bill was reported from the finance committee to authorize the organization of national banks without circulation. A bill was introduced authorizing the issue of $44,000,000 reserve as a part of the permanent circulation. Two resolutions, majority and minority, were reported from the finance committee to test the sense of the Senate on the question of redemption and specie resumption, and they were specially assigned to Monday next for consideration. In the House of Representatives the discussion of the salary bill was continued at much length. Mr. Dawes was among the speakers. A resolution was offered by Mr. Dawes, and adopted, for an inquiry as to whether correspondence in the New York or Boston postoffices has been tampered with to obtain evidence of fraud on the revenue or for any other purposes. The naval committee reported bills to increase the strength of the navy from 8500 men to 10,000, and for a special appropriation of $4,000,000 for the department. The former bill was passed, amended so as to authorize the increase only until January 1, 1875.

CIVIL RIGHTS.

The Louisiana delegation to the national civil rights convention in session here, accompanied by Senator West, called on the President for the purpose of paying their respects. Senator West in introducing the delegation to the President, said it embraced many of the most intelligent working republicans of Louisiana. James Lewis addressed the President on behalf of the delegation, thanking him for the care and protection the colored people of Louisiana received from him since the commencement of his presidential term.

To this address the President replied that he was glad to meet the delegation. He would always endeavor to secure for the colored man all the rights which should accompany his enfranchisement. Certain rights were still withheld, but he hoped that ere long they would find themselves in possession of all the legal privileges which belong to free men. He did not know what Congress would do in the matter, but he thought it likely that that body would at its present session pass some civil-rights bill, and that if such a bill is defeated it will probably be because some extreme measure will be urged by a person claiming to be a particular friend of the colored man.

SENATOR ANTHONY.

Senator Anthony today introduced a bill to repeal the law requiring the printing of a volume containing the President's message and documents. Thirty-five thousand copies of this volume have been heretofore printed. The Senator offers this bill to test the disposition of Congress toward cutting off a great amount of public printing.

NEW YORK.

Wall Street.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—The stock speculation opened rampant and higher on the announcement of the probable peaceful settlement of the Spanish question. The numerous out-of-town orders giving instructions to buy for investment, together with the feeling with great operators that they cannot fail to still further recover from the effects of the panic, serves to counteract any downward movements and give a healthy tone to the market.

The leaders in the Union Pacific speculation believe the current prices of this company's stocks and bonds will be advanced to former figures. The failure of the Northern Pacific and the delay in the construction of the Southern Pacific road render it evident that there will be no opposition to this line for several years hence.

It is believed the greater portion of the Grinnell & Co. Lake Shore stock which was placed in the street as collateral for loans has been sold, and no fears are now entertained that any very large amount of these shares will be again thrown upon the market.

The leading features of speculation today have been the low-priced non-dividend-paying stocks, such as Union Pacific, St. Paul, and Wabash; but the improvement, to a considerable degree, has extended to the Vanderbilt securities, all of which are higher than ever before since September.

Money is plentifully at 6@7 per cent. and no further stringency in funds is anticipated this year. Sterling exchanges are steady and unchanged at 109⅜@109⅝. Gold opened at 109¼, and afterwards sold at 109⅜.

FAILURE.

MESSRS. R. T. Herrick & Co. of 41 Nassau street, prominent stock brokers and members of the New York Stock Exchange, suspended payment this morning and gave public notice accordingly. This house was of previous good standing in the street and did a flourishing business.

DELIVERY OF THE VIRGINIUS.

A Washington despatch says the demands of the United States set forth in the protocol, have been agreed in, and the agreement has received the official signatures. This agreement does not differ in terms in any essential particular from the protocol already printed, except that the time, place and manner of the delivery of the Virginius and prisoners to the United States, and the salute to the flag, which had not been settled, have now been fixed. The Virginius is to be delivered on Christmas Day. News of the final settlement of the terms of agreement have been forwarded to the Spanish authorities at Havana, and the necessary orders given.

EXCITMENT IN CUBA.

A letter from Havana says that the excitement at that place is subsiding. With the solution never to surrender the Virginius this party is much the largest and more influential in the counsels of the oligarchy which rules the island. When the news of the demands of the United States was first received the rage and excitment were indescribable. A meeting of the members of the Casino was called to consider the situation. American members were advised by personal friends to remain away. The general sentiment at the meeting was adverse to any compliance with the demands of America. All the casinos in the island were communicated with and advised to have confidence in the Havana casinos. The casino of Cidnfuegos held a meeting and protested against the demands of the Americans. The other casinos took similar action. On the streets threats of violence against Americans were openly made, and the mob were only prevented from burning the Virginius by the officers of the volunteers.

OFFICERS ON THEIR DIGNITY.

The captain general was obliged to issue an order recommending confidence in the administration of the island, and moderation in the actions and expressions of the populace. To prevent the scuttling the guard on the Virginius has been doubled. The officers of the navy keenly feel their humiliation in the return of the Virginius, and it has been proclaimed in the newspapers that if the vessel is given up all the officers of the Tornado will resign all grades of honors and decorations and retire from the service, and that many of the officers on the other war vessels will do the same. Matters are now growing quieter. Much depends upon the casinos and their allies, the volunteers. If these continue to prove obstinate the Virginius will probably be destroyed at her moorings. Efforts are making to conciliate this, and from present appearances, the efforts will be successful. Official intelligence is unobtainable here.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 10.—The safe of Brown & Co., jewellers, was broken open last night and between three and four hundred dollars' worth of unfinished jewelry stolen therefrom. The thieves effected an entrance by picking the locks of the door and safe.

CHICAGO, ILL.,, Dec. 10.—The Governor Beveridge has refused to interfere in the case of Perfect, the negro wife murderer, sentenced to be hanged Friday.

ST. LOUIS, Dec, 10.—On Thursday evening, while preparations were being made for nuptials between Richard Bottcher and Miss Cora Crovenbald, at the residence of the latter's mother, Charles Crovenbald, an uncle, Benjamin F. Crovenbald, brother of the young lady, and F. W. Weber, rudely entered the house, peremptorily ordered the party to disperse, and forbid the marriage. During the confusion Bottcher was shot in the leg by Weber. Charles Crovenbald and Weber were arrested and bailed, and Bottcher, after having his wound dressed, returned to Mrs. Crovenbald's house, where he has since remained.

Yesterday afternoon Benjamin F. Crovenbald and Weber went to Mrs. Crovenbald's residence and demanded to see Bottcher. This was refused, but after a time Bottcher left the house and started to run down Grand avenue. Young Crovenbald pursued, and fired four or five shots at him, three of which entered his body, one passing through his heart and killing him instantly. Crovenbald and Weber were arrested, and locked up, and Charles Crovenbald will probably be arrested, as the facts developed prove that there was a premeditated plan to kill Bottcher. The affair created great sensation, as Mrs. Crovenbald is a widow of the late county judge. Crovenbald is a man of wealth and position, and all the parties except Bottcher are highly connected.

NORFOLK, VA., Dec. 10. The British barque Jane Anna of Dublin, laden with old railroad iron, is ashore twenty-five miles south of Cape Henry. She was bound to Providence.

SAVANNAH, GA., Dec. 10. The steamship TEXAS, from Liverpool for New Orleans, went ashore Tuesday, seven miles south of Tybee Bar. Steamers have gone to her assistance. No damage is apprehended.

VERSAILLES, Dec. 10.—M. Lachaud, the counsel for Bazaine, finished his address this morning. Before the judges withdrew Bazaine said:—

I have two words in my breast—honor and country. I have never been wanting towards this proud motto during forty-two years of service. I swear before Christ that I have not betrayed France.

After a long deliberation the judges declared Bazaine guilty of the charges of the capitulation of Metz and of the army in open field without doing all that was prescribed by honor and duty to avoid the surrenders, and unanimously condemned him to death, and to be degraded from his rank previous to his execution. After judgment was rendered all members of the court signed an appeal for mercy, which the Duke d'Aumale immediately conveyed in person to President MacMahon. Bazaine was greatly agitated when he heard the decision of the court.

The Winnamuck mine in Utah is reported to be haunted by a sulphurous ghost, which blows out the miners' lights and flings picks at their heads, to such an extent that no man who can take his pick will work there.

Birds in Heaven.

BY HENRY WARD BEECHER.

"Mr. Beecher—Will there be any little birds in the world to come? Tell us, some time, through the Ledger, what you think about it—whether there will be eternal life for any of God's creation but man?"

Certainly—if we are at liberty to suppose that all the fairest things on earth will be found again in Heaven—it is not strange that people should wish to see birds there.

Caged birds, when gently and skilfully dealt with, become members of the family, and draw to themselves the affection even of rude natures.

It is affecting to see how coarse and uneducated men long for something on which to lavish affection. Men frequently have a stronger love for a dog, or a favorite horse, than for any human being. Sailors and soldiers are famous for their love of pets. There is an elderly lady at one of the resorts on the sea coast, whose hens are to her as members of the family, and who would as soon think of killing a niece, or cousin, as suffering her hens to be decapitated. They live joyfully, die in honor, and go to their graves lamented.

A man who has long owned a fine horse, journeyed with him, been borne through dangers by him, cannot endure to think that death ends his career. If the children have been fond of him, and he has become associated with the whole family, he rises out of the brute creation and is clothed by the heart and imagination with human attributes.

Men's own lives sometimes pass over to things with which they have long lived, and it is no wonder that they hope to see them again in after life.

But wishes are not prophets. There are no revelations and no presumptions of the fate of animals after death.

When one looks at the birds in their wild liberty, and traces home to their real causes many of their charming ways, and examines their habits, it takes away much of the romance of bird life. True, their plumage is beautiful, their motions graceful, their song most charming. But who does not know how quarrelsome birds are? They are jealous, irritable, selfish and combative. There are no greater despots and tormentors.

It is not the carnivorous birds to which we allude. Of course hawks and their kind will destroy animal life. But so do shrikes, blue jays, robins, catbirds, etc. They play scurvy tricks upon each other's nests. They break and eat eggs, and at times they prey upon each other's young.

The bird life is very narrow. The instincts which move it are few; only rudiments of intelligence appear, and but a very low degree of affection, while moral feeling, of course, is wanting.

Of course, there may be birds of paradise, but we suspect the distance is too great for earth-born birds to fly, and that they must needs be native-born to the spirit land. If any earthly birds are to be counted worthy of translation, we should be glad to put in our plea for the sparrows—not for the English sparrow, which, we grieve to say, is a noisy and quarrelsome fellow, but for the Quaker-like chipping bird, the field sparrow, and, above all, for the sweetest of all northern songbirds, the song sparrow.

The nun-like woodrobin, perhaps, should also be chosen, together with the canary bird, that most lady-like bird, the goldfinch or yellowbird, and the warbling bluebird, of gentle manners.

It is very amiable to wish to carry forward with us whatever has excited admiration on earth. But we suspect that it is like children's wishes, to carry their dolls and toys with them into man and womanhood. The longings of youth are often the contempt of old age.—[N. Y. Ledger.

To Get Woodchucks Out of Stone Walls.—A correspondent tells the boys that the way to get a woodchuck out of a stone wall without tearing it down is to take a piece of wire about three feet long, place both ends in one hand, and put the curve at the creature's nose. He will usually lay hold, and being unable to let go when there is a steady pull, he is speedily brought to daylight and destruction.

7 Per Cent. Bonds,

ISSUED FOR CONSTRUCTION OF WATER-WORKS UNDER ACT OF LEGISLATURE,

PASSED APRIL 27, 1872.

Rochester possesses the elements of a prosperity unexcelled, if equalled, by any other city in this State. It is the centre of trade to a surrounding population of about 500,000, to whom the means of transportation are furnished by Railroads radiating from the city in eleven different directions.

Its indebtedness, excluding this Loan, is less than $1,850,000, while it has Public Property amounting to about $2,350,000, and Private Real Estate valued at $70,000,000.

The bonds are issued in either Coupon or Registered form, the Registered being transferable at the office of the Union Trust Company of New York, where both principal and interest is payable.

The expenditure of moneys derived from their sale is directed by the Mayor of the city and the Board of Commissioners.

Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures by the mild, healing properties to which the disease yields when the system has been put in perfect order with Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which should be taken concurrently to correct blood and system, which are always at fault, also to act specifically upon the diseased glands of the nose and its chambers. Catarrh Remedy should be applied with Dr. Pierce's Nasal Douche, with which medicine can be carried high up and perfectly applied to all parts of passages and chambers in which sores and ulcers exist, and from which discharge proceeds. So successful has this course of treatment proven, that the proprietor offers $500 Reward for a case of "Cold in Head" or Catarrh which he cannot cure. The two medicines with instrument, for $2, by all druggists.

SIXTEEN OIL PAINTINGS IN A BOOK!

Never before was such an idea attempted for book illustration; every one who has seen it pronounces it SUPERB. Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe's latest work,

Women in Sacred History, is a series of narrative-sketches, drawn from Scriptural, historical, and legendary sources. ILLUSTRATED WITH SIXTEEN CHOICE OIL CHROMOS, after paintings by the most celebrated artists of the world, giving a rich and magnificent variety of Oriental costume and beauty. Mrs. Stowe in her charming style has written a book full of interest, and without a dull page in it, which even if not illustrated would sell rapidly; but the

make it one of the most unique, original, and remarkable books ever offered. The pictures, if published separately, would readily sell for $2 each—or $32, while the entire book, with the sixteen pictures, together with sumptuous bindings of the volume, can be had for one-fifth of that amount. The book is published in ENGLISH and in GERMAN, and is making a tremendous

FIRE INSURANCE.

THE undersigned represents the following First Class Fire Insurance Companies, and is prepared to issue policies on all classes of risks at current rates, insuring houses and their contents insured for one, three or five years, on the most favorable terms. Written quotations given to SUMMER RESIDENTS to leave their houses unoccupied a portion of the year, without extra charge.

Aetna Ins. Co. of Hartford, Assets,	$5,396,380
Ins. Co. of North America, Philadelphia, Assets -	3,270,739
Hartford, of Hartford, Assets, - - -	2,201,316
Royal, of England, - -	10,000,000
Orient, of Hartford, - -	705,520

These companies were among the HEAVIEST LOSERS at the Chicago and Boston fires, every dollar of which was promptly paid. It costs no more to insure in them than it does in the small fire and weak concerns that squeeze in to secure business in time of trial—the only time, in fact, when an Insurance Company is of any service.

If desired, property in OTHER TOWNS AND CITIES will be taken, and be covered in these and other reliable companies.

Iron in the Blood

MAKES THE WEAK STRONG.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low state of the system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.
